One month extension

Emergency dept. will maintain 16 hour schedule in October

by Andrew Milne

The Minden hospital emergency department will not close — at least for now.

However the department's operation will be scaled back to 16 hours per day for the month of October. What will happen after October remains to be seen.

The plan to reduce the hours of operation in October was announced September 22 by St. Joseph's Hospital and Health Centre in Peterborough.

The 16 hour a day schedule runs contrary to a recommendation from the parent hospital board's finance committee. On September 15 that group proposed the emergency department be closed as of October 1 and that an eight hour a day medical clinic be provided at the Minden site. The proposal — which would have included significant cuts to personnel — was in response to financial pressures, and an acute shortage of local doctors to staff the ward, said Minden Hospital director Foster Loucks.

The Ministry of Health however instructed St. Joseph's executive board on September 21 that they could not make such a move without community consultation and ministry approval.

The reduction to the 16 hour schedule will still result in some staffing cuts.

The hospital is expected to consult with the community and submit longer term plans to the Ministry of Health for approval before the end of October.

Said hospital director Foster Loucks, "Under the circumstances I feel the 16 hour emergency service — though probably what the community would consider the absolute minimum acceptable — is about the best we could expect. Obviously people would like to see us return to the 24 hours, open the in-patient unit, and so on. But until we get our doctors back I don't think we can say that's going to be on."

Ups and Downs

The week following the initial announcement of the proposal to close the emergency department and open a clinic, once again set the community on an emotional roller coaster.

After the details of the impending closure, based on the finance committee's recom-

County council deadlocked over management committee

by Jerry Grozelle

Haliburton County warden Ross Rabjohn was on the hot seat at last week's September meeting of county council.

After about 45 minutes of heated debate, a vote on whether or not to reinstate the Management Committee was called. A show of hands resulted in eight in favour and eight opposed to the motion.

Rabjohn was forced to cast the deciding vote and he supported the no side.

All 17 members of council voiced their opinions on the subject. It wasn't the principle of a management committee that was the contentious issue. Some of those who voted no, said that they weren't opposed to a such a committee. The county had a management committee until about 10 months ago, when it was disbanded by a motion which was supported by a majority of council.

One of the stumbling blocks was the composition of the committee as proposed in the motion by council member Bill Howe.

The motion would have made all the reeves of the 10 municipalities represented on council, members of the new management committee. That was how it was composed before.

"Whatever happens at the management committee will come back to this table said councillor Bill Davis. "You are going to have a kick at the cat. I would whole-heartedly endorse a resolution to form a management committee for the rest of the term of this county council or amend the by-law to incorporate it as a standing committee."

Davis insisted that there should be a committee of some kind and that all municipalities should be represented.

Eleanor Harrison is opposed.

"I've been on county council for four years and it has been a difficult four years," she said. "We seem to be taking one step forward and two steps back. I'm not entirely certain that reinstituting the management committee per se is not two steps back. I don't feel there is any fiscal responsibility in reinstating the management committee, as it was. We're going to have another meeting of 10 people once a month with meeting fees and mileage fees. I think some form of restructuring would do the same thing. We could set aside whatever time is required, in the morning (of county council meetings) to deal with management issues. We're all here anyway. We're paid to be here. I think we would be able to accomplish the same thing with absolutely no added cost to our budget."

She said that if a management committee is formed, the heads of the various committees should be members.

"I did not see the advantage of it (during her previous four years on county council) and I'm not convinced that it will work if it is reinstituted."

Warden Rabjohn said there is a need for such a committee to provide direction with regard to the strategic plan and to look at Harrison's suggestion that county council be restructured.

Councillor Bill Howe said that a management committee "is a very necessary part of this council. If we don't have one, we face the real possibility in the future of some CEO running the county. We don't want that."

Howe suggested that the steering committee could recommend the composition of a management committee and provide a "job description."

Murray Fearrey supports the concept of a management committee.

"In the nine months that I've been here, not one new idea has been introduced at this table," he said. "There's no new ideas because you don't want to stand up and propose an idea that somebody might perceive as being stupid."

"The whole idea of the management committee is to look after the finances; to look at where this county is going."

He cited the county building addition and renovations and the hospital "coming on stream" as examples of issues a management committee should address.

"Those things should be sourced out and reported back to the council," he said. "We don't need 17 people to do that."

"You talk about restructuring," Fearrey continued. "Is the restructuring really going to happen in an open forum with 17 people, with 17 different ideas? Doesn't it have to start with a common thread, and grow?"

"Other counties have them (management committees)," Fearrey said. "I think we're probably the only county around that doesn't."

He said he has an idea that Haliburton County should be approaching Victoria County to form a joint heritage fund. "Who do I take that to?" he asked.

Later in the discussion, Lisa Mercer said that she is disappointed that anyone would be afraid to express their ideas to council.

With regard to the composition of a management committee, Mercer said she is "not really clear why it would have to be the reeves." She said that everyone around the county council table represents his or her respective municipality.

Anthony questioned Fearrey's suggestion that a management committee would have more privacy to discuss issues. She pointed out that all committees are subject to provincial guidelines that prohibit in-camera meetings of elected officials unless the subject of those meetings deals with specified exemptions.

"Those meetings would still be open to the public and the press," she said.

Anthony said she would not be comfortable supporting a management committee unless the responsibilities of that committee were clearly defined.

Lewis Stevens echoed the sentiments of the no side when he said: "All members of county council need to have input. Everyone's thoughts should be considered. Everybody has to have a say."

"If a smaller group would accomplish more, why not have a mixture of reeves and deputy reeves," said councillor Bob Canning.

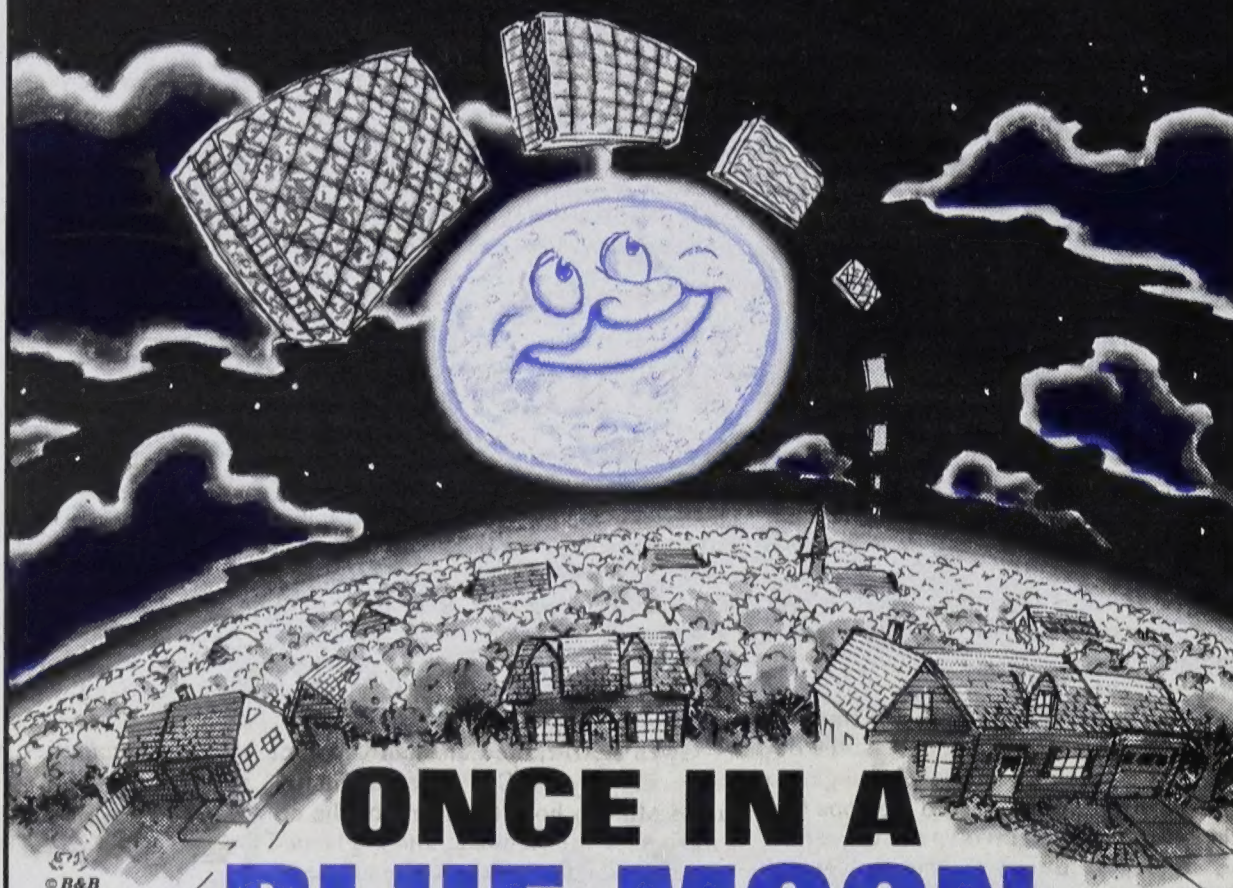

"We seem to be creating an us and them situation," said councillor Jock Mavor. "I want no part of that."

Mavor said he would like to hear some explicit reasons why a management committee is needed.

Although he spoke in favour of reinstating a management committee, warden Rabjohn heard enough to prompt him to cast a no vote.

"I think more information is needed," he said.

16 hour option gives AHSB some time to plan

by Andrew Milne

Community reaction to the recent reduction in Minden hospital's emergency ward to 16 hours a day, seven days a week has varied.

Paul Heffer, chair of the Acting Health Services Board (AHSB), remarked that the decision, while hardly ideal, would at least give the board time to gather some solid information on which to make decisions about service priorities.

"For an interim period," he said, "in which the information can be gathered and the proper measures can be put in place, I think probably this will satisfy the immediate needs of the community."

The board is expecting a draft report from a study done into community health care needs, at the end of October.

Somerville reeve John Huke expressed frustration over parent hospital St. Joseph's handling of the situation.

"You never seem to know what they're talking about," said Huke. "They say one thing, and then when it comes out in print it's another. I find them very frustrating."

"The sooner we get the hospital away from St. Joseph's the better," he concluded.

Somerville township is in northern Victoria county, in the Minden hospital catchment area.

John Macklin, deputy reeve of Laxton-Digby-Longford, also in northern Victoria, commented that at least the decision not to close the ward altogether was positive, and expressed the hope that the hospital would involve the townships in finding solutions to the problem at hand.

"I'm a financial man," said Macklin, "and sometimes you can't make the decision entirely on the dollar."

Macklin also noted that community-based care should still be a value, and that creative solutions to delivering it outside the hospital system might be part of the answer.

"We don't need to wrench our family members away from their homes when they're in critical care," he said. "And with the technology we have today, it's not necessary."

Macklin also professed deep respect for the Minden hospital staff's professionalism and ability.

Fred Brecht, of Bexley Township, said he felt no further changes should be made until that study becomes available.

"I believe that they should undertake to continue the Minden hospital operation until this report has been received and reviewed and a decision made as to what kind and nature of medical services we're going to be able to have in this catchment area," said Brecht.

Bexley is also in northern Victoria.

Community Committee for Physicians (CCP) chair Jack Brezina said the move has at least left a semblance of a hospital in place. Brezina also expressed the hope that the CCP would soon be successful in attracting doctors to the community who would be qualified to practice in the hospital and thereby ease the difficulties the institution is facing.

Marching on Ministry of Health offices

Minden Hospital situation sparks rally

by Andrew Milne

Health care workers and others will rally September 28 in support of improved rural health care throughout the province, following the reduction in hours in the Minden emergency ward.

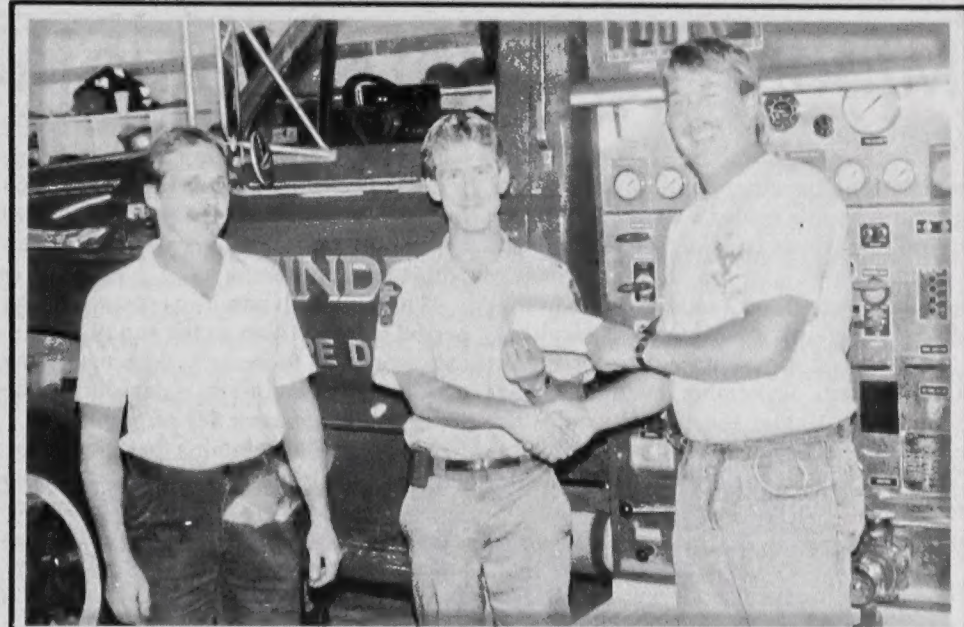

Anyone who feels strongly about the issue, say organizers, is welcome and encouraged to come along.

Gwen Hewitt, the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) representative at the Minden hospital is one of the organizers of the demonstration, planned for noon outside Ministry of Health headquarters, at 80 Grosvenor in downtown Toronto.

The demonstration, says Hewitt, is not intended so much as a labour event as an attempt to get the government to pay more attention to issues affecting care in rural areas. She hopes, she says, that members of the local community will be willing to come along and show their support.

Hewitt says she feels the government and health care administrators have to be realistic about assessing the complexities and unique challenges of health care in rural communities.

Said Hewitt, "It's not a black and white issue, and that's what they're trying to do to it... I don't think it's as simple as saying we will have no more than one emergency in a 40 kilometre radius. They have to take in geographic information, demographics, accessibility, and I'm talking in terms of getting from your home to the institution. Small communities lack public transportation systems, and things that are easily available in the larger communities, and things like these are often overlooked. I mean do people in Toronto honestly think about what it's like to get to a facility when there's no public transportation."

Hewitt also hopes to find a physician to address the rally regarding the significance of the recent Scott report in easing the difficulties surrounding physician availability in small towns and small

Staff cuts still to come

Staff cuts due to the reduction in emergency hours at Minden hospital won't be finalized until later this week.

Gwen Hewitt, Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) representative for the Minden Hospital estimated that six of the ten full time positions in her bargaining unit would be cut, and part-time positions would see hours reduced.

The precise effects, however, won't be known until after contract options, early retirement, and seniority issues are worked out, a process which might take some time, said Hewitt.

Jeannette Gibbons, representative for the Ontario Nursing Association (ONA) in Minden, confirmed RNs — particularly those on part-time — would experience reductions in hours, but wasn't yet ready to say what extent. On Friday she said, they haven't all been informed, due to the speed with which the decision was made.

Both said the uncertainty — the waiting for a verdict on the period after the end of October — leaves many of their staff in much the same position as before — concerned, and wondering about their futures.

mendation, became public September 18, St. Joseph's issued a press release denying that it was considering closing the hospital, and stating that emergency services would be maintained pending discussions with the Ministry of Health.

St. Joseph's executive director Frank Lussing said September 19 that it was still quite likely the ward would be closed following talks with the Ministry September 20, if the Ministry was unable to provide additional revenues to keep it open.

The Ministry said the same day that freeing additional revenues was a remote possibility at best.

Lussing's justification for the press release was somewhat unclear — he argued that the ward might not close, and that if it did, it would only be temporary. He also refused to call the proposed move — closing the emergency ward — a closure — based on the fact that a walk-in clinic would be operating in the building in any case.

It was quite clear at this point that the ward might still be closed. Ambulance traffic would not have come to the walk-in clinic proposed, nor would any services be left in the community after office hours.

The Ministry had also issued a release September 18, saying the hospital would not close — however assistant to the minister Barbara Selkirk said September 19 that this referred only to the immediate situation — prior to the talks with the ministry scheduled September 20. After this, she confirmed, the ward might still be reduced in hours or cut as of the first of October.

Neither the story in The Times nor The Star had claimed any change in service would occur before October.

St. Joseph's then met with the Ministry September 20. The decision to reduce the ward's operations to 16 hours per day was made after the executive board meeting September 22.

A complicated tale

Where it all leads from here is a complicated tale.

The ministry's position on the proposed closure of the emergency ward, as stated to St. Joseph's September 21, was that St. Joseph's could not deviate from its operating plan — approved by the Ministry at the beginning of the fiscal year — without holding community consultation and obtaining Ministry approval. The ministry has therefore given St. Joseph's until the end of October to complete that consultation and come up with a revised plan.

The original operating plan for the period from October to the end of the fiscal year was to reduce the emergency ward hours to 16 hours a day during the week, and 24 hours a day on weekends.

St. Joseph's maintains that, due to the expense of bringing emergency room physicians into the community from outside (necessary due to a shortage of physicians in the community), it can't manage 24 hour service for the rest of the year. The budget simply couldn't take the costs associated with providing such a service. Three quarters of the $1.3 million expenditures budget is already gone, after only half the fiscal year. The price tag for continuing to maintain the ward 24 hours a day seven days a week would be a $350,000 operating deficit. Even 16 hours a day for the rest of the fiscal year, said St. Joseph's executive director Frank Lussing September 19, would go close to $300,000 beyond budget.

The eight-hour clinic proposal would, according to St. Joseph's, have been manageable with the funds remaining in the Minden Hospital's budget.

The hospital is experiencing budget over-runs at its Haliburton site as well.

Earlier this month the St. Joseph's Community Advisory Committee for Haliburton County and area recommended to the hospital board that a 16 hour a day, seven days a week schedule for the emergency department was the minimum the community would accept.

Loucks said he hopes to convene a Community Advisory Committee (CAC) meeting — possibly September 28 — and invite the Acting Health Services Board (AHSB), members of the board of St. Joseph's, and a consultant carrying out a usage study for the CAC, in an attempt to get a picture of the needs in the community, particularly around emergency care.

The CAC is a group formed by St. Joseph's to advise it on community concerns related to health care. The AHSB is expected to assume administration responsibilities for the Minden and Haliburton hospitals after April of 1996.

The most obvious concern over closing the emergency ward is the associated risks — particularly in the catchment area south of Minden. At the mid-point between Haliburton and Lindsay (the nearest hospital to the south), some areas would suddenly move from being 25 km from the closest emergency ward to being 50 km distant.

Knowing how serious this would be gets into the world of health care needs studies, in which attempts are made to minimize the unavoidable risk of leaving weak spots in the emergency care net.

The AHSB and the usage study

The AHSB has commissioned a study into projected health care needs in Haliburton county, as part of an attempt to assess where health care facilities will be located. The purpose is to achieve an optimum allocation of acute care resources and services to meet the needs of the entire service area. Looming in the immediate future is the suggestion that the AHSB assume responsibility for the operation of the two hospitals by April 1996.

The study just started several weeks ago. The AHSB expects to have the report by the end of October.

Says Fred Brecht of Bexley Township, in the north end of Victoria County (the Coboconk area), "I am please that they decided to keep it open the way it is now until the end of October — or even 16 hours per day. I am disappointed that they have only let it go until the end of October, in light of the fact that there is an independent assessment of the provision of medical services in this whole catchment area under way right now. I believe that they should undertake to continue the Minden hospital operation until this report has been received and reviewed and a decision made as to what kind and nature of medical services we're going to be able to have in this catchment area."

HAVE protests funding change

HAVE (Help A Village Effort) announced that changes in the funding policy of the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) will affect the work of the group. In the past, HAVE has received grants from CIDA to help drill new wells, promote health care and establish a primary reading program in Third World countries.

However, CIDA's new funding policy states that only groups raising over $50,000 will be considered for funding.

"HAVE generally raises $20,000 per year; an incredible amount, given the size of the group and the community which supports us," says HAVE member Sheila Ziman. "This change in CIDA's funding policy is forcing us to find ways to increase our fundraising potential so that we may continue our development work and honour our commitments to our overseas partners. We are currently exploring a variety of options and would greatly appreciate any ideas or help from our supporters."

Report issued

Trail development potential is high

by Andrew Milne

"Haliburton County has the potential to develop the finest, most diverse multi-use, integrated trail system anywhere... But it has to be county-wide," says Jill Vandal.

Vandal is one of the authors of a major study into existing and potential development in Haliburton County in the field of trail systems and tours. The statement above — made September 20 at a meeting held at Wig to unveil the study — is, in a nutshell, what the study found.

The study was commissioned by the a group organized to investigate and coordinate the creating of just such a system.

The focus of the group, says Vandal, is to create a large, integrated, well-marked and well-organized network of trails, linked extensively to other systems outside the county, serving a wide variety of tourists including those interested in mountain biking, snowmobiling, cross-country skiing, horseback riding, hiking, canoeing, and camping. The report emphasizes the trails must penetrate all sections of the county.

Furthermore, a marketing effort would be required to establish the county as a destination people know they will find good trails and interesting tours.

A well-developed trails network would bring tourists to the area, spread their impact throughout the county, and keep the economy moving in all four seasons of the year.

The study was presented to the County Council earlier in the day. Council was asked, based on its conclusions, to contact Victoria County about establishing a major link between the two jurisdictions via the Victoria rail corridor. The council agreed to follow up on the proposal.

"We're really excited that they've done that — it's nice to see something go forward immediately like that," said Vandal.

The presentation, besides asserting that the county has vast untapped potential for this type of development, also sketched an outline of a strategy to be followed to develop that potential.

The eventual goal, to be reached over a period of years of gradual, progressive development, would involve the following:

→ major trail corridors, such as the Victoria rail line. These would be general use corridors, probably along already developing axis, such as between the villages of Minden and Haliburton.

→ trailheads. These would be major gateways to the trail system, with parking and trail maps available. Retail development in these areas would be encouraged as well.

→ specialized activity zones, distinct from the larger, more general use trails. These might be specialized for mountain biking, horseback riding, hard core hiking enthusiasts.

→ signature trails with particularly visible, marketable tourist draws.

→ connecting trails, to make the network easy to navigate.

→ specialized trails, such as for bird watching trails, designed for use by a specific clientele.

→ tours of the trail system — historical tours, mushroom walks. These might be extensions or modifications of existing tours.

→ infrastructure, upgrading, maintenance and improvements to make trail use easier. Vandal stressed that maintaining adequate rest stops and washroom facilities are essential to encouraging trail use.

Vandal also stressed the importance of establishing and enforcing uniform standards for the trail system — including clear, uniform signage systems and uniform safety standards. "People have to start to identify the county with that kind of quality," she said. "They have to think of Haliburton County, and think of quality trails."

The public meeting was attended by members of the Nordic Trail Association (NTA) and the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association (HCSA), both of which currently run major trail systems in the county. HCSA and NTA members expressed both interest in and reservations with the presentation.

Their primary concern had to do with private landowners' objections to trails crossing their property. Every year, they say, they go through the same process: finding the landowners after property has changed hands, explaining their intentions, and convincing the landowner the liabilities associated with the trails are negligible. A larger trail network, said John Teljeur of the NTA, while an attractive proposition, might make this process that much more complicated, that much more time consuming.

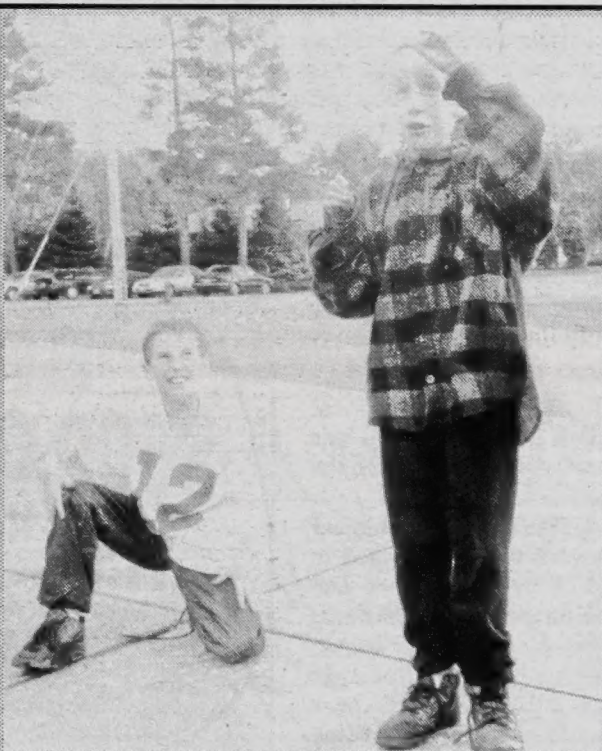

Vandal and company took the position that similar trail systems in other areas have encountered and addressed those concerns, and in the best case scenario, landowners become quite positive about having a significant tourist trail near their property, and on occasion reap financial benefits themselves from entrepreneurship related to the presence of the trail.

"Property values," Vandal asserted, "go up, not down, after the trails are built."

Heart and Stroke Foundation recognizes volunteer contribution

Gostocks honoured for service

by Jerry Grozelle

Haliburton residents Al and Joyce Gostock were surprised to receive Canada Volunteer Award Certificates of Merit for their work with the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario.

Speaking for herself and her husband, Joyce said: "We were stunned and very appreciative."

The certificates were presented at the opening of the new Heart and Stroke office in Peterborough last Wednesday evening. The presentation was made by Peterborough mayor Jack Doris and Heart and Stroke area co-ordinator Jill Genno.

Joyce and Al Gostock helped to get the Haliburton County chapter started.

"We answered an ad in the paper for people who were interested in getting involved with the Heart and Stroke Foundation," Joyce said.

That was in 1989 and in 1990, the local chapter was chartered.

Joyce said that she and Al were new to the area (as full-time residents) and they wanted something to get involved in. When the opportunity arose with the Heart and Stroke Foundation, it was a cause close to home for the Gostocks. Al has suffered five heart attacks and took an early retirement because of his heart problems. Joyce has also

In spite of their illnesses, Al and Joyce are living life to the fullest and helping others with their work for the Heart and Stroke Foundation.

They have chaired the annual canvassing drive for five years and, throughout the county, have helped to raise thousands of dollars for research and health promotion.

"It's important to keep the money coming in," Joyce said. "We believe it is a good cause."

She added that there are a lot of people in this area who should share the accolades.

The Canada Volunteer Award was established in 1977 by the former Department of National Health and Welfare to recognize and encourage those Canadians who have made outstanding volunteer contributions toward improving the health and social well-being of their fellow citizens.

"I'm still apprehensive," said Hewitt, "because I've seen nothing anywhere to say that this will continue indefinitely — is it permanent, temporary? We know for October there will be reductions but those people will continue to be paid until the end of November as per our contract. We can plan layoffs according to this, and people will opt for retirement or bump or whatever. But if they come back to us in November and say oops, we really can't make it go, it will now be eight [hours per day], we're looking at a whole different thing. Then more people have to go."

Gibbons said her nurses were and are experiencing extensive stress from the constant waiting for a verdict. "It was getting pretty intense," she said.

Said Gibbons, "We certainly have learned from our past experiences that you can't count on tomorrow — there have been so many changes — some expected, some unexpected, that we're just taking it a month at a time."

town emergency wards.

Hewitt also said it is important that the administrators be in touch with the effects of their decisions, something she says she sees only rarely.

Says Hewitt, "Under the Canada Health Act we're all entitled to comprehensive, universal, accessible health care. It's a pretty basic premise, and one that certainly is our right. For the people sitting in Peterborough and the people sitting in Toronto, it's all well and good for them to talk about health care, but come and see us... Look at St. Joe's board. We've got two people from our county on St. Joe's board. If I'm a board member from Peterborough, and I've maybe done my once yearly tour here, if that, I'm not affected by whatever decision I make, the same as I wouldn't be affected if I sat in an office in Toronto. I don't experience firsthand the results of my decisions."

"I would hope," says Hewitt, "to see some local people there, even if it's the politicians. I think that's important."

Follow the trail

We were pleased to see the release last week of the Haliburton County Trails and Tours Network Strategy. This valuable document provides an intensive examination of the possibilities which exist for creating a trails network in the county.

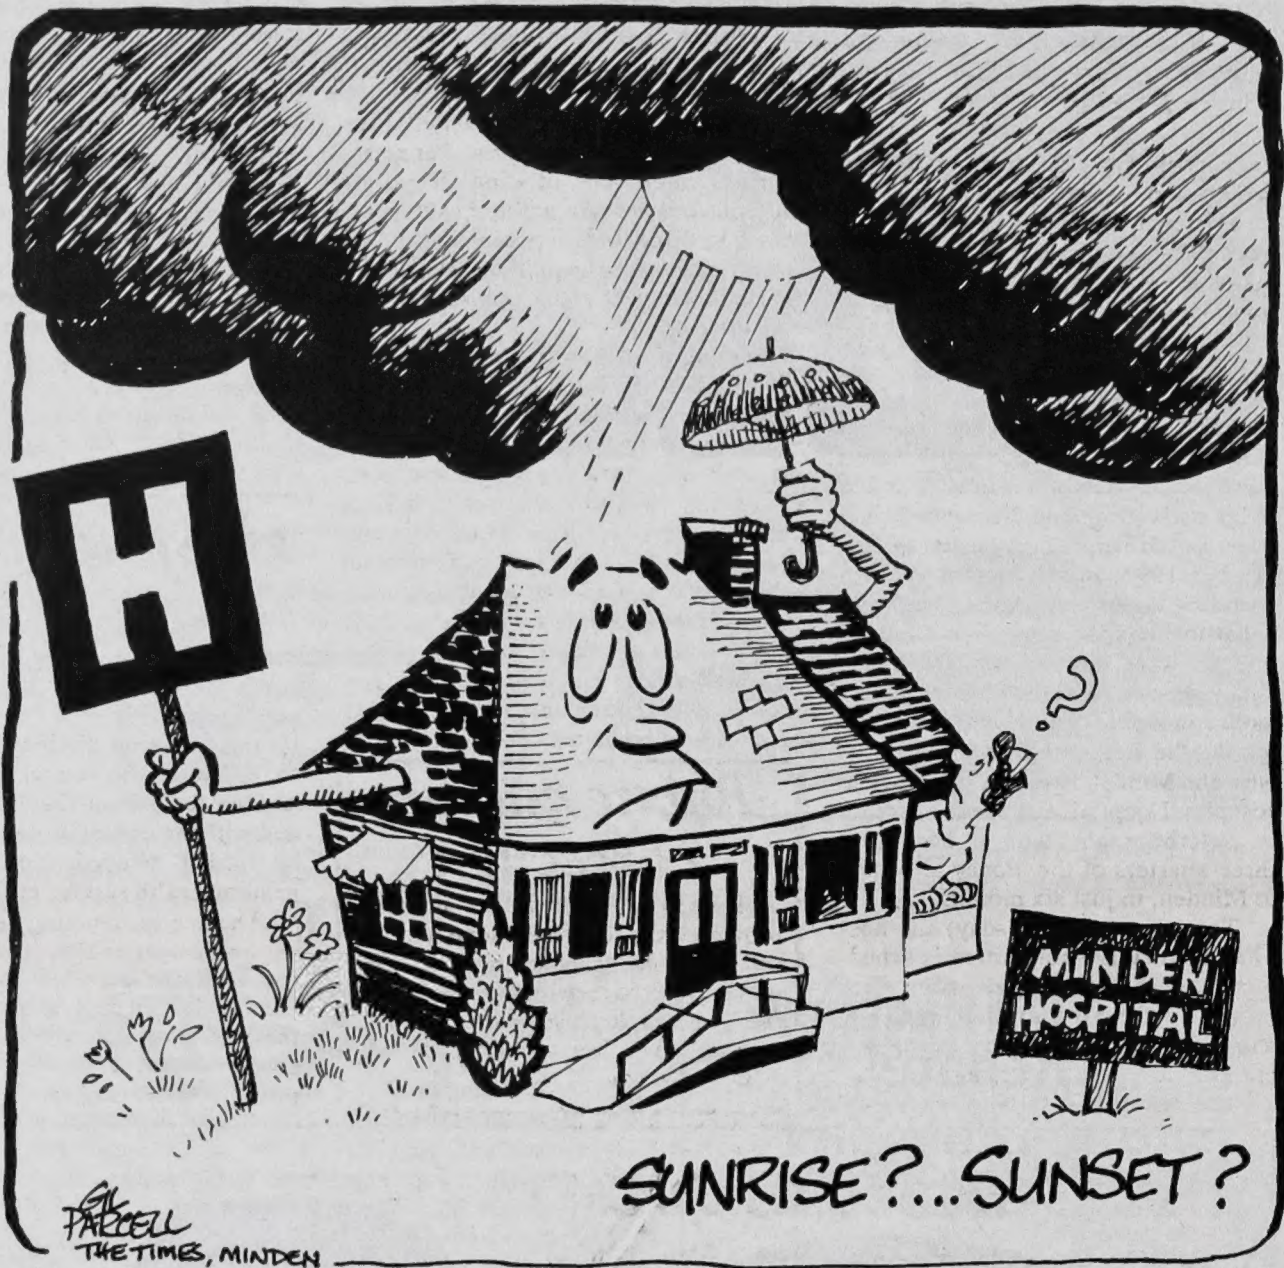

There is little doubt that more people are finding the outdoors experience to be an important part of their recreation. In a world of instantaneous communication and the lure of computers that can transport one's mind to any experience via virtual reality, there is a growing desire and need not to lose touch with the natural world. Along with an increasing awareness of the value of fitness and the invigorating affect of leaving the modern world behind, (if only for a brief period of time), there is bound to be an upswing in people seeking experiences such as those supported by this study.

The Haliburton Highlands is an ideal location for coordinated trails network. The Highlands already boasts some of the finest scenery and easily accessible wilderness in Ontario. The area has the infrastructure and expertise for hosting visitors and has an existing network of trails. Two groups in particular, the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association and the Nordic Trail Association, have both realized the value of creating and maintaining trail networks. Likewise private individuals and groups have recognized the value of offering an organized outdoors experience.

As the study points out, and as the community is about to experience next weekend, trails and tours need not only be associated with vigorous athletic activity. The annual studio tour is a prime example of how existing resources can be used to extend this concept to other areas. Many examples are listed in the study, including historical tours, gastronomic tours, heritage and architectural tours. Last week, in this newspaper, the idea of a tour based on the annual maple syrup run was proposed.

The study contains many excellent ideas. The challenge now will be to turn those ideas into reality and ensure that this document and all it contains does not become forgotten. We already have too many studies, crowded with great ideas, collecting dust on our shelves.

A monstrous event

Editor:

Regarding last week's letter: brave women indeed! Just travelling to a Beijing ruled by the iron-fisted Chinese regime (remember the Tianamen Square butchery?) must have taken a lot of guts. Speaking of which, the sale of still-beating body parts from executed young Chinese is now a good source of foreign currency for Mao-Ze-Dung's totalitarian heirs.

Life-loving and freedom-loving Canadians are ashamed that Jean Chrétien's neo-pagan government has had anything to do with such a monstrous event as the depopulationist get-together in "Red" China's police state capital.

The Beijing henchmen with their demoniac policy of "mandatory abortion and sterilization", first of all in the continuing rape of Tibet, are showing again how close they are to their death-dealing comrade, Nazi Germany's Adolf Hitler.

For shame, Ottawa feminists!

As to those that think that "... choices left to women are out of control", they should realize that there is no such thing as a morally-correct "choice" after conception: the truly brave woman exercises her choice before copulation.

No consultation

(The following is letter sent to the Ontario Health Minister Saturday September 16.)

Dear Mr. Wilson

I have just been advised that the finance arm of St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough has recommended the closure of the Minden Hospital Emergency service with its stabilization beds. This action was apparently taken without any prior consultation with the community affected which has one of the highest concentrations of seniors in the province.

This high handed bureaucratic action will directly impact approximately six thousand people in northern Victoria and Peterborough counties as well as the citizens of the immediate catchment area. Sen-

In others words...

Closing the Minden Hospital by stealth

The following editorial appeared in the Peterborough Examiner of September 19, under the heading: Very Public Issue: Minden Hospital.

Minden Hospital lingers. But its demise seems imminent, squeezed out of existence by budget and staffing woes. It isn't fair and it isn't right. But that is the way things are headed—unless Queens Park starts asking residents of the community and the surrounding rural area what kind of health care they want.

Its a tangled tale. The Minden Hospital had nine beds until April, when a local doctor abruptly returned to his native England. Those beds had been closed for a short period in November 1994, in an attempt to keep spending under control. But the April departure was the final blow. Outside doctors were hired to run the emergency service, with two other doctors having hospital privileges. That duo left at the beginning of this month. Now the Minden Hospital's parent, St. Joseph's Hospital and Health Centre in Peterborough finds it has spent three-quarters of the money allocated to Minden, in just six months.

Tomorrow, (Wednesday) the hospital's executive committee is scheduled to hear its finance committee propose cutting the hospital service to a seven-day "walk-in" service that operates from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Minden Hospital has been effectively replaced by an eight-hour clinic designed to handle over-flow patients from another Minden clinic and patients who don't have physicians of their own.

The question now is whether all these changes are a shutdown or a change requiring public consultation. There is only one answer. An acting health services board has been appointed to take over the Minden Hospital and its sibling in Haliburton. But the public must be consulted.

Having a hospital in Minden means patients needing routine care can stay in their home communities instead of travelling to Peterborough or other communities. It gains time for people who need emergency care, time that can save lives and reduce injuries. It provides vital employment in a county with a 30 per-cent jobless rate and a large number of welfare recipients. And it's a source of civic pride; a hub of the community. Those nine beds are not just pieces of furniture; they represent jobs and compassionate care for area residents.

Phone number correction

Due to an error in the material provided, the toll-free phone number for Chris Hodgson's Lindsay constituency office, which appeared in the Queen's Park Report last week, was incorrect. The correct number is 1-800-424-2490.

That said, area residents might be content having the Haliburton Hospital to rely on. The villages are only 24 kilometres apart. Service at the larger Haliburton Hospital could be beefed up, absorbing at least some Minden staff. But until every ambulance in Ontario is staffed by paramedics and inter-municipal transit is sure, swift and cheap, rural hospitals provide a vital service. The former NDP government did promise last December to pay $2 millions of the estimated $3 million needed for a new hospital in Bancroft.

Local residents might prefer having their own hospital board, rather than operating under St. Joseph's wing. St. Joseph's might prefer not having to worry about chronic money problems at the two smaller hospitals. Whatever the decision, this is one that should be made with the help of a fully informed public that knows the full cost of each option.

For its part, Queen's Park should reveal its response to calls for flat-fee payments to doctors staffing rural hospitals and for programs that give small town doctoring added appeal. It should also say whether Minden qualifies for help as an under-served area.

Closing the Minden Hospital by stealth is not the way to make a decision with such far-reaching consequences.

Hospital could be an hour away

ior citizens have been left in a highly exposed position with the closest alternate hospitals over a one hour journey for most citizens. Nothing has been done to enhance the marginal ambulance service (no paramedics) now available and with the advent of winter, travel will be further delayed. You now have a genuine health service problem here!

The really damning feature of this announcement is that it effectively negates all the excellent work by local community leaders and citizens, over the past several months, to try and resolve this issue. Surely they deserve more courteous and concerned treatment than this.

It is increasingly apparent that the bureaucracy in charge of this situation decided on a course of action early this year and, while delaying action over the summer, has now decided to press forward oblivious to and without concern for its impact on a highly vulnerable segment of our society. Accordingly, I would very much appreciate the opportunity to meet with you and request that you also arrange for this whole matter to be subjected to the light of public scrutiny.

Classic bloopers from the world of sports

I'm sorry that I missed the 30th anniversary of the Sonny Liston/Cassius Clay fight last spring. (You may or may not remember that May 25, 1966 was the night that fast-mouth Cassius Clay — soon to be reborn as Mohammad Ali — decked a growling bear of a boxer named Sonny Liston, against all predictions, and thereby won the title of Heavyweight Champion of the World.)

You may also have forgotten — or repressed — the memory of the performance of Robert Goulet that night. Mister Goulet, a Canadian, had been hired to sing, before millions of boxing fans, the national anthem of the United States of America. It was an assignment for which Mister Goulet was eminently qualified. He was handsome; he spoke English; he could sing. And that night Robert's rich baritone rang out from ringside, reverberating from the arena walls, bouncing off the interstellar satellites around the cosmos merrily tympaning against the eardrums of fight fans from Kenora to Korea, from Tswassen to Timbuctoo.

There was only one teensy weensy thing wrong.

The words. Robert Goulet forgot... the words.

Right there on national — make that international — television, Canada's own Robert Goulet, hemming and hawing and erring and aahing over the words to the U.S. National Anthem.

Oh well.

Not as if the Yankess haven't paid us back. Remember 1985? Yankee Stadium? The Blue Jays hell bent for the World Series? And Mary O'Dowd stands up to warble the anthems.

She did real well on the Star Spangled Banner... but she bobbled the words to O Canada like a third-string short stop with peanut butter on his glove.

And just last year we suffered through the performance of Dennis Parks, a lounge singer signed to sing the anthems at the opening of a Canadian Football League game south of the border.

Dennis did a fine job. He had memorized every word of our patriotic ditty.

Unfortunately, he neglected to note the tune. When Dennis sang O Canada, it sounded a lot like Auld Lang Syne with overtones of For He's a Jolly Good Fellow.

Hey — nobody's perfect. There's something about sports that brings out the fumble-footedness of commentators.

Remember the Heidi Games?

Let me take you back to 1968. The New York Jets are playing the Oakland Raiders. The Jets are leading 32-39, with just over a minute left in the game.

We're talking Superbowl Countdown here, where every game counts. Jets 32, Oakland 29, just over a minute left.

And NBC television switches to the Sunday Night movie — Heidi.

Sports fans of North America went ballistic — tens of thousands of viewers called NBC to vent their wrath. And those were just the TV watchers who knew how to dial a phone!

Other sports bloopers? Mostly verbal, thank goodness. There was the time Curt Gowdy explained to a breathless TV audience that:

"...Brooks Robinson is not a fast man, but his arms and legs move very quickly."

— and the Canadian golf commentator who once whispered into his microphone: "Arnie Palmer is getting ready to putt. Arnie, usually a great putter, seems to be having trouble with his long putt. However, he has no trouble dropping his shorts."

Let me leave you with the all-time great Sports Bloopmeister — Casey Stengel. Here's how the famous New York ball club manager answered one reporter:

"No manager is ever going to run a tail-end club and be popular because there is no strikeout king that he's gonna go up and shake hands with and they're gonna love ya because who's gonna kiss a player when he strikes out and I got a shortstop which I don't think I coulda been a success without him if ya mix up the infield ya can't have teamwork and it's a strange thing if ya look it up that the Milwaukee club in the morning paper lost a double-header and they got three of my players on their team and you can think it over."

Or, as Yogi Berra so succinctly put it: "If people don't wanna come to the park, nobody's gonna stop 'em."

O'Reilly appointed to National Defense and Veterans Committee

John O'Reilly, Member of Parliament for Victoria-Haliburton has been appointed to the standing committee on National Defence and Veterans Affairs in Ottawa.

"This committee will be dealing with issues that affect the Canadian Armed Forces leading up to the budget in February. The future of our peacekeeping forces and the role they will play is an area of heated debate in Ottawa and across Canada. I hope to be able to contribute to the committee," said O'Reilly.

O'Reilly has served in the cadet corps and the reserves, and made his maiden speech in Parliament on peacekeeping.

"My main concern is that our peacekeepers are deployed in areas where there is a role for them to play, and that they are properly trained and equipped for their tasks. No doubt we will monitor the situation in Bosnia," said O'Reilly.

O'Reilly also said he hoped to deal fairly with the needs of veterans.

TSW report

The reservoir lakes in the Haliburton area had declined only 2.7% to 50.2% by September 19 according to a report issued by Trent Severn Waterways. The amount stored is very close to normal for the past 20 years. Some rain over the preceding week as well as reduced evaporation has meant that near minimum flows from these reservoir lakes have been sufficient. No change is anticipated.

Senior Redmen dominate Falcons

by Jerry Grozelle

When Gary Brohman says he expects the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School senior football team to be a strong contender this year, he isn't exaggerating. If the team's performance Friday afternoon is an example of what is to come, the competition must be desperately looking for an Achilles heel -- a chink in the Redmen's armour.

The senior Redmen played host to the Fenelon Falls Secondary School Falcons Friday afternoon, trampling the visitors to the tune of 44-0.

"We dominated offensively and shut them down defensively," coach Brohman said.

The Redmen jumped to a 21-0 lead in the first quarter. Mike Bradley scored two of those TDs and Tim Stouffer crossed the line with the other. One of Bradley's TDs was a 60-yard effort. Kevin Morissette converted all three.

Morissette added two field goals in the second quarter, increasing the score to 27-0.

By the end of the third, Bradley had scored his third TD and Morissette added a field goal and the convert to Bradley's TD.

After 45 minutes the Redmen led 37-0.

Bradley scored his fourth touch down on an 80-yard run in the fourth quarter. Morissette's aim was true on the convert to end it at 44-0.

There is no doubt Bradley will be watched closely by the opposition's defense for the rest of the season.

"Mike is an outstanding player," coach Brohman said.

Brohman also singled out the performance of Will Wallace, who stood out both on offense and defense. Mike Hartwick, Ryan Ladurantaye and Tim Stouffer played a strong game as well. On the offensive line, besides Wallace, Brohman gave credit to Bill Koz and Jeff Wray for solid performances.

"Tim Stouffer caught two big passes -- for 21 yards and 23 yards," Brohman said.

The Redmen will play at home again this coming Friday. The Weldon Wildcats will be visiting. The juniors will play at 1:30 p.m., followed by the seniors at 3:30.

HAND-OFF: Junior Redmen quarter back Mike Morissette (45) prepares to hand the ball off to a teammate during the second half of the game against the visiting Fenelon Falcons. The Falcons came out on top by a 6-2 score in the season opener.

Junior Redmen lose 6-2 to Falcons

by Jerry Grozelle

The junior HHSS Redmen football team had a few good scoring opportunities, but couldn't capitalize on those chances.

"We had the ball on their one yard line a couple of times," coach Bruce Griffith lamented.

He pointed out that the junior Redmen are a "really young team" that lacks experience. He commended the defensive unit, saying that it played well.

The Redmen's two points came when an opposing player caught a punt on the one yard line and stepped back over the line for the safety touch.

Griffith singled out flankers/quarterbacks Greg Simmons and Mike Morissette, as well as defensive players Corey Casey, Steve Ecclestone and John Swinson for their efforts.

Griffith isn't unhappy with his team's play in the first game of the season, saying: "They were pretty nervous to start off."

The juniors will play the first game this Friday when HHSS hosts Weldon's junior and senior football teams. Griffith said he talked to the Fenelon coaches and they indicated that Weldon's football teams are "pretty strong."

Junior Redmen soccer team continues to improve

Coach Dan LaPierre is "quite pleased" with the continued improvement of the HHSS junior boys soccer team. The junior Redmen tangled with the Fenelon Falls Falcons on Fenelon's home turf last Wednesday. The result was a 4-1 win for the host team.

LaPierre says the score "was not a good indicator" of the Redmen's performance.

"They had a couple of shots that went in that shouldn't have," he said. "Over all, I'm quite pleased. They played more like a team, with some outstanding efforts."

Wayne Dean scored the Haliburton goal early in the second half, cutting the Fenelon lead to 2-1 at the time.

LaPierre is confident that if the junior Redmen continue to improve, they will be competitive.

The junior Redmen will play host to the Lindsay Collegiate Spartans tomorrow at 2:30 p.m.

Senior Redmen edged 1-0 by Fenelon Falls Falcons

Although the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School senior boys soccer team was unable to convert any of their good opportunities into quality shots on goal, coach Peter Bertelsen said the contest in Fenelon Falls last Wednesday was "an excellent game."

"It was a good game all around," Bertelsen said, in spite of the 1-0 loss. "I think we're going to be very competitive."

Bertelsen said goaltender Jason Kasepчук played very well, adding that the only goal was scored on a corner kick.

Defensively, the trio of Chris Andrus, Bob Andrus and Nick Fawcett played a strong game.

Bertelsen says he is happy with the improvement his team has shown over the first two games of the season. He is confident that the Redmen have a shot at the Kawartha West finals, but he admits they will have to win at least three of the next four games.

The season is a short one, with just six games to determine which of the four Kawartha West teams will compete for the division title.

Bertelsen says he expects a good game tomorrow when the Redmen play host to the Lindsay Collegiate Spartans at 4 p.m.

With such a good game against the Fenelon Falcons, Bertelsen is optimistic that the Redmen can earn their first win when the Spartans come to Haliburton. The Falcons downed the Spartans 3-1 in their first encounter of the season.

Senior curlers get ready for another season

by Dave McAdam

Minden Seniors Curling Club planned to launch its 1995-96 activities September 7 with a "best ball rules" golf tournament at Blairhampton followed by dinner at the club. Unfortunately, the long overdue rain, which was no doubt appreciated by the greenskeepers, kept the golfers at home and off the course. Captains were scrambling to notify teams early Thursday morning. An alternate date of September 14 was scheduled.

In the meantime, our Social Convenor, Doreen Bullied, and her committee had been hard at work preparing the supper which went ahead as planned. The fresh hot corn on the cob, the beef on a bun, coleslaw and the fruit salad with the 'sin' bars and coffee were delicious. It was a great meal and the evening proved enjoyable thanks in large part to Doreen Bullied, Gord Arthur and the secretary, Muriel Harrington.

On the 14th, the golf tournament did go ahead even though the day started out overcast. The sun broke through later in the day and the golfers enjoyed the sport and especially the 19th hole fellowship when all the driving and putting was done. Four teams in all played the course at the 36 par score. Thanks to Muriel Harrington and husband Jack who with Frank and Merle Codlin did an excellent job: organizing teams; scheduling "Tee-offs"; and score keeping. They were able to break the ties by working each team back from the 9th hole and taking the respective low scores on each hole. The winners were:

First Place: Captain Larry Lougheed, Clara Warren, Bill Strype, Dave McAdam.

Second Place: Captain Ted Wilkes, Ebby Bishop, Wynn Newbery, Bob Hurre.

Third Place: Captain Bob Bullen, Tom Hurtta, Keith Fountain.

Ladies Longest Drive: Marion Thomas. Men's Longest Drive: Don Drewell. Men's Closest to the Hole: Jim Schultz and Ladies Closest to the Hole: Libby Hurre.

Presentation of the golf prizes was put ahead to the Wine and Cheese Membership night at the club on September 21.

Membership night was duly advertised. As a result we have had several new members join our ranks. They were welcomed to the club by secretary Muriel Harrington and hopefully, will enjoy the friendships they make and curling with us.

The Club lounge was filled to capacity with the current and new members. President Ross Davies opened the meeting with praises for the membership having acquired sufficient money through fund raising to purchase a dishwasher for the kitchen. No more dishpan hands. Our next project is the purchase of a ceiling heater for the rink area to help with controlling condensation problems.

All in all, the cheese, bubbly pop and goodies made for a fun evening. If the fellowship evident at this meeting is an indication of things to come this year, we believe we are in for a great season of curling, both within our house leagues and into our various bonspiels. See you at the Curling Club.

HELPING DUCKS: The second annual Haliburton-Minden Ducks Unlimited Dinner and Auction raised an estimated $12,000. More than 160 people packed the Grand Ballroom of the PineStone Resort and Conference Centre for the event. Supporters are seen here at the Pyramid Raffle table as Brandy Hewson (right) helps with the ticket sales.

Minister has good news for hunters

by Jerry Grozelle

Natural Resources Minister Chris Hodgson brought some welcome news to the annual general meeting of the Haliburton Highlands Outdoors Association on September 17. Hodgson announced that the Ontario government will grandfather the Firearms Acquisition Certificate (FAC).

What that means is that anyone who already has an FAC, or proof of the successful completion of the Hunter Safety Training Course, may apply to have his or her FAC renewed without taking the new FAC course or writing the examination. It also applies to people who have an Outdoors Card with hunting privileges who have owned a firearm since 1979.

Hodgson pointed out that this "window of opportunity" will only last until December 31, 1995. After that time, the new federal law will require all firearms owners who apply for an FAC to take the exam.

"This is very important to hundreds of thousands of firearms owners in Ontario," Hodgson said. "Hunters, farmers, recreational shooters, First Nations people and Olympic shooters are among the groups this will help."

Hodgson said that the federal gun control legislation, Bill C-68, is scheduled to come into effect on January 1, 1996, unless the Senate forces the house of commons to make some changes.

"Once passed, Bill C-68 will require that firearms owners pass a federal exam in order to receive a licence to acquire a firearm," Hodgson said. "Under the existing criminal code, this is our window of opportunity. The province has the opportunity to recognize previous training, education testing and experience."

"We have the opportunity for qualified Ontario hunters to avoid the unnecessary duplication of exams. I want to assure you that this government is committed to reducing bureaucracy, red tape and duplication. It is committed to not having a burden put on the honest, law-abiding citizens. We know that Ontario's current hunter education and firearms training programs are working because we have the safety records to prove it.

There aren't many outdoors associations which can boast having the Minister of Natural Resources as a guest speaker at their annual meeting. However, there aren't many outdoors associations like the Haliburton Highlands Club, which can claim the head of MNR as a founding member of the association. Chris Hodgson, Minister of Natural Resources, Victoria-Haliburton MPP and founding member of the HHOA, addressed the group's annual meeting September 17.

"I'm happy to announce today, especially in Haliburton, that the provincial government is to recognize the previous training and experience so that Ontario's hunters will not have to write a federal exam to acquire a federal firearms acquisition certificate. Until December 31st, 1995, Ontario will recognize the qualifications of people with hunting versions of the Outdoors Card to acquire a federal FAC. This is just common sense.

'Bill C-68 misses the mark': Hodgson

"By allowing grandfathering, we are not diminishing or eliminating safety training.

When this expires in five years' time, a person applying for an FAC will have to take the exam and Bill C-68 will still be a very serious problem.

Hodgson said that the millions of dollars that would be wasted on firearms registration would be better spent on fighting crime.

"I don't need to remind you that Bill C-68 misses the mark," Hodgson said. "Like all of you, I don't believe for one minute that forcing all gun owners to register their guns will make the streets safer, unless the criminals begin to suddenly register illegal guns.

Hodgson pointed out that in Ontario in 1993, 19,970 restricted weapons permits were issued. This involved all the police background checks of those applicants.

"How many do you think were refused," he asked the audience. "Zero. So, obviously the criminals are not going to register their guns because they know they won't qualify."

He said Provincial government representatives were slated to appeal to the Senate on September 21.

"We hope to convince the senators to make major changes to the bill," Hodgson said. "To scrap the stuff that won't work and toughen up the crime prevention measures that are there. We will demand that Bill C-68 be split and sent back to the House of Commons."

Hodgson said his government is living up to its campaign commitments.

One of those commitments was to create a dedicated Trust Fund for all hunting and fishing licence revenues, so everyone who buys those licences will know the money is being spent on the fish and wildlife resources.

"These funds will be put back into the resource," Hodgson said.

He also agreed to look into the possibility of putting the revenues collected from fines that are levied upon conviction of Fish and Game Act violations into the trust fund as well.

Another promise the provincial government has lived up to is the reinstatement of the Managed Forest Tax Rebate Program. That will take effect in 1996, Hodgson said, adding that all the details will be available this fall.

Hodgson said that two of the most important issues of concern to the people of Haliburton County are gun controls and ice fishing regulations.

He said that a new committee will be set up to implement changes to the ice fishing regulations.

"It's our job at the Natural Resources Ministry to make sure that the natural resources are conserved and sustained for future generations to have opportunities to fish.

"I'll need your help to implement this," he told the audience of about 150 people.

He said he'd like to see a working committee formed which includes the MNR, the HHOA, the Chamber of Commerce and lodge owners, to implement a new policy for this area and for all of central Ontario.

He said that some changes to the present policy, which was developed under the authority of the NDP government, will be announced within a couple of weeks of the meeting.

Hodgson added that, on principle, the ministry wants to expand on the put-and-take lakes (the lakes that don't have naturally reproducing lake trout or brook trout populations). That may be translated to increased stocking of these lakes and encouraging fishing in those lakes to take some of the pressure off the naturally reproducing lakes.

He said that anglers will be restricted to one line but that winter fishing will be allowed, "recognizing that it is not just a lifestyle of our local residents but it's important to our local economy."

OFAH representative

Chris Brousseau of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters (OFAH) started off his presentation by saying that the OFAH had a change in optimism on June 8, 1995. That is when the Progressive Conservative government was elected in Ontario.

He spoke about Bill C-68, outlining some regulations that many gun owners may not be aware of.

Official welcome for German visitors

The Haliburton Highlands was host to over 100 visitors from Germany this past week. Three groups of tourists, travelling by bus, included a two night stop-over here as they travelled through Ontario and Quebec.

The visit to Minden and the Highlands has become an annual feature event for groups from Germany. In particular the visitors enjoy the panorama of coloured leaves at this time of the year. "We don't see colours like this at home," one traveller said. "The leaves there turn yellow, but we don't get the bright reds and oranges you have. It is spectacular here."

In addition to a visit to Algonquin Park, many group members took to the air to get an aerial view of the scenery.

The visits, sponsored by the Volksbank, a regional banking institution in Germany, started several years ago. The first visitors came from Minden, Germany. While this year's travellers were not from the Minden's German namesake, they do reside south of the city.

Minden Reeve Jeanne Anthon was the guest of honour at two receptions at PineStone Inn last week. She offered an official welcome to the visitors and encouraged them to return to this area.

Norland donation

Judy Pankhurst, representing the Ladies Auxiliary to the Norland Firefighters presents a cheque for $1,000 to Minden Lions Club past president Tom Gardner. "Many people from the Norland area rely on the medical services provided in the Minden area" Pankhurst commented as she handed over the money to assist with the purchase of the Community Medical Clinic. The presentation was made at a recent Lions Club bingo night.

Detector dog Sky struts her stuff for meeting

He said that Bill C-68 has provisions for a Firearms Possession Certificate (FPC), which will make it mandatory for anyone who has possession of a firearm, including cross-owns, to obtain a permit to own each of his or her firearms.

He said there will be five different classes of FPC and that a Firearms Registration Card will have to be obtained for each firearm.

Brousseau showed statistics that proved that tighter gun controls, such as those imposed in the United Kingdom, had no affect on the crime rate and that if anything, the crime rate increased after the measures were implemented.

He also showed statistics showing that the countries with the most restrictive gun control laws have, by far, the highest homicide rate.

"It is easier to create a registration system than to go after criminals," Brousseau said.

He urged everyone to keep the pressure up by contacting Senators, protesting Bill C-68.

Brousseau applauded the provincial government's decision to uphold the Williams Treaty and deny First Nations people any special off-reserve hunting and fishing rights. The treaty members gave up those rights in exchange for a cash settlement.

Through the Access to Information Act, the OFAH learned that more than 85 per cent of the letters received by the NDP government regarding the issue were opposed to special hunting and fishing rights.

Brousseau said the provincial government has been labelled by a few people as racist because it cancelled the special rights issued by the previous government.

"It has nothing to do with race," Brousseau said. "It's a conservation issue."

On the lake trout issue, Brousseau said that the OFAH wants the least impact on anglers. He added that other measures must be explored besides those presented.

The OFAH is opposed to the closure of winter fishing.

MNR Canine Unit

Mike Evers was the third speaker of the day. He is the MNR's handler of Sky, the detector dog.

Evers explained how he and Sky were trained to find illegal fish and game and showed some of the equipment that the Canine Unit uses.

Sky is a three year-old female yellow Lab. Her talents also include finding people, who are missing.

It costs about $30,000 to train a dog and its handler to the point where they are ready to take to the field. He said that the HHOA has financially supported his unit and he formally offered his thanks to the membership.

"We have had a lot of support from a lot of people like yourselves," he said.

After his talk, Evers invited everyone outside for a demonstration of Sky's talents.

After listening to Hodgson and Brousseau, Evers said he has owned hand guns and long guns for years. He added that if anyone has the right to comment on the gun control laws it is conservation officers, who are constantly exposed to people with firearms.

"I'm not in favour of gun controls," Evers said. "Gun control isn't going to help me do my job. It's not going to solve any problems for me at all."

New directors elected

Following the guest speakers, a motion to accept the HHOA's constitution was passed and the election of the directors for the next year was held.

Natives mount major effort to encourage hunters to turn in hides

The Hats For Hides Program is moving into the 21st Century with three major developments taking place during the fall of 1995. This means more than 27,000 hunters will be exchanging deer and moose hides for a collector's edition hat as a tribute of their conservation effort.

First and foremost, a five-year-high number of independent depot operators has been organized, with close to 100 sites available for hunters to access. This province-wide network includes a growing list of Aboriginal depots and a strong backbone of depots affiliated with BRT Hides Ltd. Depots are located everywhere from parking lots to craft shops, home garages, and pet stores.

The Minden depot will be set up at Minden Live Bait and Tackle at the north junction of Highways 53 and 121.

Secondly, the promotion of the program has never been so intense as the Union of Ontario Indians continues to administer and co-ordinate the Hats For Hides initiative. As well as operators being assisted in getting the word out in their communities, advertisements have been taken out in Native publications and in Ontario Out Of Doors Magazine. Included in this effort was a promotional booth at the Ontario Out Of Doors Fall Hunting Show at the Toronto International Centre on the weekend of September 8-10.

That's where the third prong of the promotional attack took place. There is an active search for corporate and/or private sector partners and sponsors to become part of this strong Ontario hunting tradition. Their role will be to finance the new hat and logo (1995 is the last of the three-year series) and possibly become involved in future promotional campaigns for the new series of hats.

It doesn't stop there though. Direct input is being sought from the hunters and the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters (which initiated the program with the former Department of Lands and Forests a quarter-century ago), conservation and co-operation continue to build. Our common goal is to stop game waste.

As the Hats For Hides bumper sticker says, "Real hunters go all the way!"

Program Highlights

The 1995 Bear hat is the third in a Hats For Hides series honouring the large game animal we hunt, eat and use for clothing and other useful and decorative items. The 1993 hat featured the Deer and in 1994 the majestic Moose was honoured. These logos were designed by Perry McLeod-Shabogiesic for the Union of Ontario Indians (UOI) in consultation with the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters (OFAH), the originators of the Hats For Hides Program.

Even though over 27,000 hides were collected last year -- 22,710 deer, 4,613 moose, two bear and four caribou -- this is still less than half the estimated 56,000 animals taken each year in the actual hunt.

In the 1960s, hunters were pressing the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, now the Ministry of Natural Resources, to establish a provincial moose and deer hide collection program on behalf of Aboriginal people and in the name of conservation.

Each year hunters disposed of thousands of deer and moose hides in garbage dumps while there were thousands of people who required this natural resource for home and market economics. Putting conservation principles into action, the FAH began putting an end to this waste. In 1969, the Red Rock Gun Club officially began hide collecting and soon after the MNR joined this initiative by offering hunters a hat with an embroidered crest as an incentive to drop off hides at collection depots across the province.

In a 1992 decision, based largely on the MNR's desire to spend available resources on higher priority management initiatives and move towards partnerships in resources management programs, the MNR recommended the hide collection program be administered by Aboriginal people themselves. Starting in 1993, the UOI, on behalf of Aboriginal people across the province, took over purchasing and distributing hats to local collection depots. As MNR had, the UOI operates the hat exchange with Canada-Ontario Resource Development Agreement funding. In 1994, the UOI took over communication aspects of the program, as well, from the MNR.

Funded by CORDA, the MNR continues to operate the Green Hides Program, which sees 1,700 "green" or untanned hides delivered to remote communities along the James Bay coast. While the MNR is effectively out of the hide collection program from an operational sense, with the exception of the green hides element, its support as facilitator continues and is crucial to the continued success of the program.

Residents visit Legion for lunch

Fitness sessions were held Monday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings. Monday afternoon Residents' Council was in session. In the evening the Salvation Army paid a visit.

Tuesday morning Rev. Fred Elson took the Chapel service. At noon the folks had a delectable barbecue lunch. Later several residents went to crafts.

Alice Rivers is making paper decorations with gusto. She worked on one with Nancy Prentice to learn. Several months ago Alice was gravely ill in the hospital. When she came back to the home she was confined to a wheelchair. Today she is up and about with her walker. She has made a remarkable comeback and has such a keen interest in her projects.

Other folks are doing wood working and still others are making Thanksgiving decorations.

Wednesday morning volunteers in the new Palliative Care Program had their first meeting. The guest speaker was Gord Monk. He enlightened us on the care of the dying and how to meet the needs of the family. It was very informative. I am sure each one of us gained from his discussion and will use his expertise when giving care to the gravely ill resident and his or her family. The first class for the Palliative Care Program is September 20th.

Wednesday noon several residents and volunteers had lunch at the Minden Legion. We had our own room and the food was good and the service excellent.

Senior League

by Donna Wallace

Some folks tried their luck on Nevada Tickets - no winners. We wound up our outings at Kawartha Dairy, as usual. Back at the home, the folks played bingo and crockinole.

Thursday morning Ruby Johnson brought in her two Dalmatian pups for the residents to enjoy. In the afternoon the ladies from the Kinmount Baptist Church held a lovely tea party.

Friday morning the folks took on the task of folding serviettes. It is good therapy for some of the less active. Eric Smythe entertained on the organ in the morning. Later, everyone headed to the auditorium for Happy Hour. Many folks were up dancing to the music of the Grandfathers Four. One musician was missing. George Smith the violinist has been very ill. We wish George a speedy recovery and hope he will re-join the group real soon. We sang Happy Birthday to our faithful bartender Don Holden.

Janette Donnelly strutted her beautiful Dalmatian, Rusty, Saturday morning. Later in the day Jean Anthon played the piano for a sing-a-long.

Estella Burch read Sunday morning. Rev. Burgess took the Chapel Service in the evening.

To everyone who contributed in any way this week - a Big Thank You. I can't begin to thank each person.

Trivia: You probably already knew this, you just never thought about it. Batteries do wear out faster if you turn the volume up on your radio

New health cards available

Yes, there have been changes in how you apply for the Ontario Health Card.

But don't panic. It's all pretty simple and there is no hurry. However, we would like to clarify the new procedures for you.

You will need to apply for the new photo health card only under the following circumstances:

1. If you are a new resident of Ontario and do not have an Ontario health card;

2. If your card has been lost, stolen or damaged;

3. If your name has changed.

Residents under the age of 16 are exempt from this procedure.

Effective immediately, a new or replacement Health Card must be applied for in person at the Ministry of Health office.

Should the government decide to go ahead and issue new replacement cards to existing holders (those with the health card in their wallets), Ontario residents will be given plenty of notice in order to get their documents in order.

A brochure regarding criteria of the documentation that will be required is available at the Information Centre.

Have you a question that needs answering? Do you require support or assistance in accessing services? We can help, contact your Haliburton County Information Centre. In Haliburton the centre is located on Maple Avenue in the Drag River Building, phone (705) 457-2733, Monday to Friday 10 a.m. to Noon; 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

In Minden, Mondays only, the centre is located in the Court House building, adjacent to the Anson, Hindon and Minden Municipal Office. Phone (705) 286-4100, 10 a.m. to 12 Noon - 1 to 4 p.m.

Argentine exchange student is a teddy bear afficiando

by Andrew Milne

Maria Julia Rey, 18, a native of Argentina, is trying very hard to pass seven credits taught in a language she hasn't had much occasion to use until now.

Rey's English is actually quite good — more than enough for a quick interview with the local papers. But it still makes for something of a challenge.

Courses she passes here at the grade 12 level will be accepted at her own school in Argentina. If she passes, she's done. If she doesn't well...

She laughs, maybe a little nervously. Yes, she says, it's a little frightening.

Rey is from Tres Arroyos, a city of 65,000 in Buenos Aires province, Argentina. She's visiting Canada for one year on the Rotary exchange program. Her visit here is sponsored by the Rotary Club of Minden. For the first half of her stay, she's with the Lowes of Minden — Tara, Paul, Barry, Chelsea, and Justice.

She says she's been having fun so far — but hasn't had time for much beyond school.

"I don't know much about Canada yet," she says. "I've only been here a few weeks. But everyone has been very helpful, very friendly — they always try to explain things in school. They're very nice."

Tres Arroyos is ranch country — "very, very flat", as Rey puts it. So yes, the Canadian shield is something of a change.

Winter will probably be something of a change too — Rey's region of the country never experiences temperatures below ten degrees above. Rey says she's ready, however, and looking forward to skiing.

She plays tennis and volleyball, collects teddy bears, of which she now has 36. She likes music and art, but doesn't play an instrument yet.

Coming to Canada was actually her second choice — she chose the US first, but Rotary was unable to arrange it. She's happy with the way it worked out though, and enjoying it here.

Her dream is still to visit New York, however. Technically, she has been there now — her flight to Canada involved a nine hour stopover at JFK — but — much to her frustration — she was confined to the airport restaurant the whole time.

"But I'm close here," she says.

Maria Rey has enjoyed her stay in Canada so far and is eager to experience her first taste of winter.

An international treasure

From a jetliner, high above Canada's north, water is the most striking feature below. The lakes and rivers dominating the landscape provide us with more fresh water per capita than any other country, making us the envy of most of the people on the Earth, including our parched neighbours to the south. But as the planet's environment changes, how will global warming and increased ultraviolet radiation impact aquatic systems? When water is polluted with agricultural run-off, industrial effluent or heavy metals, what are the long-term ecological and human health consequences? Can we restore aquatic ecosystems? How, and how long will it take?

We know so little about populations of living organisms and how they interact with the physical components of the planet that we don't have a clue how to "manage" natural resources sustainably. And we become positively destructive when we impose political and economic priorities on management policies. We can acknowledge our ignorance by showing greater respect for the complexity, stability and productivity of natural systems. Nature can be exploited by humans, but can't be shoe-horned into our economic and political programs.

We must also increase our knowledge base of the components of the natural system and how they interact. For that, we need descriptive and experimental field scientists to gather basic information. Unfortunately, Canadian scientists, especially descriptive and field biologists have been supported like paupers. Despite paltry funding and steady loss of top talent to other countries, Canada has produced outstanding people and research in areas including the study of water. In 1991, the first Stockholm Water Prize, comparable to a Nobel Prize, was awarded to a Canadian, David Schindler, for his work on the experimental lakes area (ELA), a 400 square kilometre region of northern Ontario.

In 1968, federal and provincial politicians assigned 57 small lakes (between three and 60 hectares) and watersheds for long-term study and experimentation. The ELA hasn't been duplicated anywhere else in the world and has proved to be a scientific motherlode.

Work at the ELA showed the need to regulate phosphate pollution and reduce acid rain in North America, revealed the power of an ecosystem approach to environmental management, and led to controls on health-threatening PCBs, pesticides, dioxins, heavy metals and other toxic chemicals around the Great lakes. More recently, the ELA has provided concrete evidence for the destructive effects of climate change, acidification and higher UV on aquatic systems.

Reflections

by David Suzuki

After visiting the ELA, Bo Krantz, secretary-general of the Stockholm Water Foundation declared, "There is no other experiment or project of this length and magnitude going on anywhere in the world. It must be of infinite value...to draw on the data base from full-scale experiments that have been collected during almost a quarter of a century....The ELA has brought Canada to the forefront of water science." He added, "It has wide international, and for that matter, intercontinental impact."

The ELA research generates information that helps Canada fulfil its international obligations to protect the Great Lakes and becomes more valuable as the biosphere changes with cataclysmic speed. Yet Bill C-76, which was passed this summer, will reduce ELA funding by 70 percent in three years. These are not "cuts". They are mortal wounds. They erase any hope of long-term planning or acquisition of knowledge to develop policies for sustaining natural resources.

Focusing on marine fisheries, Brian Tobin, current minister of Oceans and Fisheries, is negotiating to jettison freshwater research, including the ELA, to Sheila Copps' Environmental Ministry. This does not make sense scientifically, but a chronically underfunded and understaffed Environment Department will not be able to support the ELA project at the level required.

The federal government ought to set board policy to protect natural resources based on solid knowledge. Indeed, Canada has an international obligation to do so. But the feds want to dump the ELA onto the provinces and the private sector. Already ELA staff has been notified of the impending 22 percent budget cut this year.

The two ministries are negotiating the fate of the ELA behind closed doors. All Canadians have a right to know what will happen to this global treasure. A third party, perhaps a university consortium could mediate on our behalf. The ELA is a unique source of information about one of our most precious resources. The Prime Minister, Tobin and Copps need to hear that Canadians care passionately about keeping it going.

Around the County Town

by Jeanne Sears (call 286-1538)

Time again to mention those people having birthdays at Hyland Crest in October - October 4, Judy Stevenson and Winnifred Rosebush; October 7 Ethel Shaw and John Ridgway; October 9 Lulu Ferrill, October 26 Mary Smith and October 27 Robina Thomas. Perhaps you'd like to think of them on their own special day.

Sunday, September 17 was Decoration Day by Minden Legion Branch 636 with a pipe band from Bracebridge leading the marchers from the bridge to the cemetery. It was a lovely day with alternate music by the Northland Brass Quintet under the direction of Walter Barnes and the service was held by various clergy. Everyone was made welcome at the Legion after this service.

Keep an eye out for the CNIB canvassers who will be calling on you in the next few weeks for your donation to this very worthy project.

Mae Ralph from Peterborough enjoyed a visit with Dorothy McElwain and Bob and Audrey Vick.

Sincere good wishes to the following people reportedly on the sick list: John Francis, Autumn Watson, Joan Jewett and Bill Harrison and to anyone else we didn't hear about.

A busy weekend for Audrey and Bob Vick with guests Rolly and John Walker, Dale and Wayne Vick and Bill, Julie and Meighan Woolfrey visiting.

September 12 bid euchre winners at Minden Legion seniors were Norm Lee, Jean Scadden, Iris Taylor and one moonshot for Marie Dennie. September 19 winners included Jean Scadden, Shirley Elcome and Marg McAfee who also had a moonshot. The games are held every Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. with everyone welcome.

Sincere sympathy to the families and friends of the late R.L. Hewitt, Harry Hutchins Sr., Ann Martina and Dora Elstone who all passed away recently.

Monday afternoon winners at St. Paul's euchre games included Jack Chilton and Pearl Cowen while most lone hands went to Betty Hardy. Iris Taylor took a prize and the draw.

Janice and Jack Shaw and Karen Shaw enjoyed a recent trip to Lindsay.

Congratulations to Betty Schlotter, Warren Whelen and Helen Cassidy, winners at the Stanhope Bridge Group. Two small slams were bid and made and the group welcomes everyone Tuesday afternoons starting at 1 o'clock at the Library in Stanhope.

Euchre games began at Gelert Centre on September 19 and winners of the evening were Joyce Schellenberg, Lois Peters, Ralph Mintz and Orval Francis. Most lone hands went to Bob Vick. Next games in Gelert are October 3 and they welcome everyone to join in the fun.

Weekly Wednesday night euchre game winners at Noble Motel on September 20 were Pat and Marcel Rousselle and most lone hands to Audrey Parker. They welcome everyone and the games begin at 7:30 p.m.

Don't forget the Vendors Variety Sale being put on by the Minden Legion Branch 636 Ladies Auxiliary on October 1 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Club 35 euchre game winners for September 18 included Muray Daniels with most lone hands, Helen Henderson and Norm Lee with the highs, Olive Jones, Bud Pipher and Tom Pearson. A special prize went to Bud Pipher and the 50-50 draw was won by Helen Lee. A super time was had by all at the "Open House - Fun Night" held Saturday, September 16 at Club 35.

Gravenhurst Seniors joined the Stanhope Senior Bid Euchre games at Stanhope on Wednesday, September 20 and everyone enjoyed a great dinner and games after. There were 21 tables playing so a really great time was had by a large crowd. The usual games will be held at 7 p.m. at Stanhope Centre.

Vern and Eleanor Gilman have returned from a visit to England and while there, celebrated their 40th Wedding Anniversary.

Branch 636 RCL Minden euchre game winners for September 14 included Iris Taylor and Betty Harper with most lone hands, Vicki Campagnola and Jack Chilton with the highs and Helen Lee, Ralph Schroter, Iris Taylor, Elli Langpohl, Marcelle Rousselle, Norm Lee, Marie Dennie, Bill Menard and Pat Scadden.

High tech help available for genealogy searches

by June Partidge

I have been thinking about the children going back to school this fall and how the teachers will try to pique the interest of their students into making learning fun and productive. The rules of discipline will be made apparent in the first week to show what will be expected from the students and what the pupils can expect from the teachers.

How can the genealogist learn from the example set by the schools?

For me, fall means reflecting on the progress I may or may not have made in my search for more branches on my family tree. At first I believed I had not accomplished very much, but as I thought about the start of school, I remembered talks with my relatives who had visited and articles I had read.

Both gave me new directions to follow. Then I thought about the discipline of giving myself time to follow up on my new clues. If I can set aside even one hour a week, I can sort already collected information and put it on my 'family sheets'. If I plan ahead, I can free one afternoon a month to go to the library or the Latter Day Saints Genealogy library in Bracebridge. The question really is...will I? It really is a matter of self discipline.

When I read the newsletter from the OGS branch I always turn down the corner of the pages that contain ideas that I may want to follow up in more detail. So I picked up some of the publications that I read this summer and found my turned down corners. Two very interesting articles deserve more study.

The Grey and Bruce (Counties) Branch article in the May 1995 issue, has a column on 'How to write a Query'. This is a newsletter that our group receives and is in our library. It is important for the genealogist to know how to communicate their request for family information clearly. A speaker at one OGS seminar told about a number of queries that could not be answered. Some people forgot to include their own names or addresses. Another person kept referring to his grandmother, but never included her name.

When you are writing a query letter, always include a self addressed stamped envelope (SASE). If the query is going to a destination outside of Canada, don't use Canadian postage. Include an international postage voucher, available from the post office, to cover the cost of the return postage. Be very clear about the information you want and list the sources you have researched.

Another article I found to be helpful was contained in the OGS publication Newsleaf of May 1995 (pages 67-69). The article tells about OGS Kintracers, explaining the computer system, software, registration and your modem requirements. The article includes a sample session.

OGS Kintracers is Canada's first genealogy-only BBS (bulletin board). It is supported by donations from those who have found what a wonderful tool it is. It can certainly save a lot of travelling time. You only need the discipline of setting aside time to sit at your computer. A link with Ottawa has expanded the number of files available. Calls come in from across Canada, USA and even Australia. They really do have something for everyone.

The local group's next meeting is Wednesday, September 27 at the Minden Library. Starting at 7 p.m. there is time to use the genealogy library. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. Come out and let us help you with your research or at least point you in the right direction. Everyone from beginner to the individual who thinks he has completed his research is welcome.

Maybe we can pique your interest or help stimulate your self-discipline following on the example of school teachers at the beginning of the school year.

CARDS OF THANKS

The Stanhope Recreation Committee would like to thank everyone for providing such great sports for our township this summer. Without all the volunteers that organized junior soccer, family baseball and adult lob ball, we wouldn't have these sports. Many thanks again and we hope to see you all next year!

On behalf of the Haliburton County Children's Concert Series (H.C.C.C.S.) we wish to acknowledge the following merchants for their donations toward our 1995 float entry in the summer parades in Haliburton and Minden: Newbatt Appliances, Churko Furniture, Cordell Interiors, Haliburton Lumber and Kernohans. To the Haliburton IGA, Haliburton ValuMart, Eagle Lake Foodtown, Rachel's Bakery, Country Rose, Butcher Block & Deli, and the municipality of Dysart et al, thank you for your generous donations to the 10th anniversary celebration of September 24, 1995 at Head Lake Park. And finally, to the executive of H.C.C.C.S. for their personal dedication - many thanks.
